A WORD FROM THE RECTOR

We grow best when we grow together.

Dear Friends,

One of the greatest blessings of the Church is that we were never meant to follow Christ alone. From the very beginning, believers gathered in homes, shared meals, prayed together, studied the Scriptures, and encouraged one another in the faith. While Sunday morning worship remains at the heart of who we are, it was never intended to be the only place where relationships are formed or disciples are made. If St. John's is to continue growing into the church God is calling us to be, we must also grow together throughout the week.

One of my hopes for the future of St. John's is to see a culture where every person is known, valued, and connected. That kind of church does not happen simply because we worship in the same sanctuary each Sunday. It happens when we intentionally gather around a table, living room, or other space to open God's Word together, pray for one another, laugh together, and walk alongside each other through life's joys and challenges. Small groups create the space where acquaintances become friends and friends become brothers and sisters in Christ.

I am proposing that we try out small groups this coming Fall. The intent is to bring together people of different generations. One of the greatest gifts of the Church is that children, youth, young adults, parents, and seniors all have something to offer one another. We need the wisdom of those who have walked with Christ for many years, and we need the energy, questions, and fresh perspectives of younger generations.

Healthy churches are not built by people who all look alike or are in the same stage of life; they are built by relationships that cross generations and help us grow together as one family in Christ.

I trust that one of the greatest blessings you could experience from joining a small group is the opportunity to meet someone you might never have met otherwise. It is easy for all of us to sit with the same friends, talk to the same people, and move comfortably through Sunday mornings. But God often grows us by introducing us to people outside of our familiar circles.

As we look to the future, I hope you will prayerfully consider becoming part of a small group. They are not simply another program on the church calendar – they are an investment in the future culture of St. John's. Through relationships, discipleship, prayer, and spiritual growth, we will become the kind of church where people are not only welcomed when they arrive but genuinely known, loved, and encouraged long after they come through our doors. I want to see us continue to develop what I saw and have been sharing since I first experienced St. John's that "You will love St. John's and St. John's will love you."

Grace and peace,

Fr. Timothy Rutherford
Rector

Reflections from Ben Kendall, the Sr. Warden

From the basket of food items in the back of the church – taken weekly to Wholeness to Freedom in Melbourne – to the New Life Mission basket in the Parish Hall, your donations are gathered and distributed to those who need them most. And we have monthly outreach focuses, upcoming are Providence Connects, the Children's Hunger Project and more.

Our Outreach Committee meets regularly and invites a guest speaker each month from one of the organizations you so faithfully support.

St. John's has a special spiritual gift: a thriving outreach tradition of giving to those in need.

Recently we've heard from and supported Vietnam and All Vets, Life Recaptured, Promise in Brevard, New Life Mission, and Nana's House.

When you bring food or donations for the baskets, it matters.

When you give your time to deliver those donations to those in need, it matters.

When you give in the blue envelope to that month's outreach partner, it matters.

"The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.'"

– Matthew 25:40

Sharing His Love - Outreach

The Outreach Focus for July is Providence Connects

Formerly Daily Bread, Providence Connects is a "focused street outreach" and the first point of contact for individuals who are living unsheltered.

P.C. deploys two mobile units with professional case managers to engage with people where they are, building trust, and offering services such as healthcare and emotional support. Case managers will also help connect individuals to additional services including housing, and encourage them to begin their journey toward stability.

P.C.'s plans include Providence Place a permanent, deeply affordable multi-family apartment community with on-site resident services and amenities, prioritized for individuals and families facing homelessness in Melbourne.

It is a locally-led, non-profit housing initiative designed to provide long-term stability rather than temporary shelter. The project addresses the critical shortage of affordable housing, reduces homelessness, and contributes to community revitalization. For more Information visit providenceconnects.org to learn more.

Outreach meetings are on hiatus until September:

The Outreach Focus for August is Children's Hunger Project

Brevard County teachers recognize which children lack weekend nutrition. Each food package includes easy-to-use, non-perishable items such as Chef Boyardee single-serve meals, breakfast bars, Goldfish crackers or whole-grain pretzels, sunflower seeds, applesauce, milk, and juice boxes.

These foods require no cooking or refrigeration, making them safe and convenient for children who may not have adult supervision or access to kitchen facilities.

This support helps the children return to school on Monday nourished, focused, and ready to learn.

The mission started with one school and 27 children. Today, food packages are assembled, packed, and delivered to 4,800+ children at 60+ schools.

In Brevard County, more than 50% of children utilize free and reduced-price meal programs through their schools, and although students are provided for during the week, they often go hungry during the weekend.

The Children's Hunger project exists to help elementary schools provide weekend food for as many children as possible. The cost to feed one child for one year is $190.

Elementary School Clothing Drive

Seaside Stitchers have been busy sewing children's clothes for the fast-approaching new school year. Unfortunately, two of their most dedicated school stitchers are unable to help this year

Croton Elementary is one of several schools in the area that need clothing and perhaps St. John's could help this year with a clothing drive for the schools, from August 2, through August 16. During these dates a box will be placed in the parish hall; and on Sunday, in the back of the church.

T Shirts, Shorts, Socks, Underwear in sizes 7-14.

One item, one packet, all will be welcome. Walmart have great prices on children's clothing this time of year.

Seaside Stitchers Sewing Group

If you are interested in joining the Seaside Stitchers they meet in the Parish Hall at 9:00 a.m. on the 1st Monday, and 2nd and 3rd Thursday of the month.

Classes are available to help the novice stitcher, and the ladies are more than willing to assist a new member. Sewing machines are also available and all materials are free if you sew to donate.

One-page Summary

The vestry opened with prayer, In attendance were Paul Mitz, Jason Grace, Gary Harrell, Keith Salmon, Peter Fischel, Ben Kendall and Father Timothy. Previous meeting minutes were reviewed, moved, seconded, and approved. Much of the meeting focused on financial oversight, property needs, worship life, and parish engagement.

- The treasurer reported that the church only needed to file Form 990-N this year and confirmed that filing was completed. Financial reports currently show a modest year-to-date deficit, but this is expected to improve once several bookkeeping corrections are made, including properly recording rent income and an $8,000 pledge payment that had not yet appeared in the reports. Restricted funds were also reviewed and cleaned up so future reports will better align with actual bank balances. The vestry also noted that the church's bank accounts remain healthy overall. The treasurer reported payroll/W-2 issues for Susan and noted the church may want to consider a different payroll provider.

- Several operational updates were discussed. The church social event was considered a strong success, especially because it brought in guests who had not previously attended and created a welcoming atmosphere.
- Kat Rizza and Sylvia Greaves volunteered to take on coffee hour kitchen duties as a ministry, removing the need for paid staffing in that area.
- Pedro Rivera has resumed cleaning responsibilities, though the vestry anticipates needing additional cleaning support in the fall when Wavecrest begins using the parish hall more frequently
- Building matters included a successfully resolved plumbing issue at the Shady Lane house, a temporary repair to the men's bathroom door, and plans to address outdoor trash and pet waste with a more permanent receptacle. Members also discussed sealing openings around church doors and other areas to reduce lizards and pests entering the building.
- In worship and parish life, the new 8:00 a.m. service began with encouraging attendance, and the vestry approved increased compensation for Sylvia in recognition of the added service and her continued growth in music ministry.
- Members also discussed a parish prayer initiative in which vestry members would regularly pray for specific portions of the congregation and help keep track of pastoral needs.
- Outreach and communication remained an important theme, with ideas including directional signs, targeted posters, a clearer and more memorable statement of church identity, and a possible Saturday garden or work group to improve the grounds and encourage volunteer participation.
- The vestry also welcomed the upcoming diocesan "Soul in the City" youth group, which is expected to stay at the church in July and may assist with service projects. Overall, the meeting reflected a church that is financially attentive, actively maintaining its buildings, growing its worship life, and looking for practical ways to strengthen community connection and ministry.

Honoring the Rev. Canon Dr. Nelson W. Pinder

The Rev. Canon Dr. Nelson W. Pinder left an enduring legacy by challenging the Diocese of Central Florida to move toward Becoming Beloved Community through examining and enhancing anti-racism efforts.

At the 54th Annual Diocesan Convention of the Diocese of Central Florida, a resolution was passed unanimously, calling for an annual diocese – wide commemoration day honoring Canon Pinder on July 10. The Convention also authorized the Canon Nelson Pinder UBE Chapter of Central Florida to craft an appropriate collect, select recommended readings and draft a brief biography of Canon Pinder to be distributed to all congregations of the diocese for use on the commemoration day.

This year, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Justin S. Holcomb has given permission to transfer this special liturgy from Thursday, July 10, to Sunday, July 12, to encourage as much participation in the commemoration as possible.

Hagiography

Nelson Wardell Pinder was born in 1932 in Miami, Florida. He grew up in the Liberty City neighborhood of Miami, was baptized and confirmed at Miami's historic St. Agnes Episcopal Church. After serving in the Army during the Korean War, Pinder earned a Bachelor's Degree in Philosophy from Bethune-Cookman College as well as a Master's Degree in Education from Florida A&M University. Inspired by the example of young Episcopal priests working in urban ministries in Montgomery and Tuskegee, Alabama, he said, "Yes" to God and attended Nashotah House Theological Seminary, Nashotah, Wisconsin.

In 1959, Fr. Pinder was called to Orlando and began his ordained ministry as the first full-time priest of color at The Episcopal Church of St. John the Baptist where he was designated Rector Emeritus on his retirement. Upon his arrival at the Orlando airport he was denied a cab. While he awaited a segregated cab, for Blacks only, he was denied a cup of coffee. At this point he would later say "I knew this was a great opportunity for me for great missionary work."

During the 1960s, his organizing and participation in sit-ins and protests to advance the civil rights movement in Orlando earned Fr. Pinder the reputation as the "street priest" or "hoodlum priest." He could have also been called the "Traveling Priest" as he would for several years conduct morning mass at St. James Episcopal Church in Daytona Beach, then drive the sixty plus miles to a second service at St. John the Baptist in Orlando. His role in leading and mentoring young people during the 1960's lunch counter sit-ins are chronicled in the 2007 play "Pinder's Kids," written by Orlando local playwright, Barry G. White. Many people in Orlando would later say that his training of these young people in the principles of non-violent protest may have single-handedly prevented devastating riots that racked many other cities throughout the nation.

In 1969, Fr. Pinder was installed at the Cathedral Church of St. Luke, Orlando, as a Canon of the Diocese of Central Florida. He was assigned to The Awareness Center, an experimental ministry dealing with street people, the homeless and civil rights. Fr. Pinder served The Episcopal Church nationally as vice-chairperson of the Joint Commission on the Church in the Small Community, vice-chairperson of the National Commission on Social and Specialized Ministries, as well as the 15th National President of the Union of Black Episcopalians. In addition to having served as the 2010-2014 Chaplain to the Order of the Daughters of the King©, Diocese of Central Florida, Fr. Pinder was most recently the Order's Province IV, Assistant Chaplain. He received nearly two hundred awards and honors including Honorary Doctorate of Divinity, Virginia Theological Seminary; Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters, Voorhees College; Preachers Hall of Fame, Morehouse College; and is in the First Class of Florida Religious Hall of Fame. On April 9, 2010, the Pinder's Kids monument was dedicated at Parramore Heritage Park, Orlando.

In a 2022 interview with the local press, looking back on his career in what was once one of the most segregated cities in the country, Canon Pinder said, "So I felt that God has prepared me for this mission ... a lot of people looked at me and thought I was crazy. White and Black thought I was crazy. Some of them thought I was going to be run out of town. Some of them told me you're going to get killed. I said you know I'm not 33 yet. My boss was 33 when he died. I've got a little time yet left."
